

Run

Been years and days
running away
looking at the bottom and I'm just a man

I could never sleep
in this town
empty dreams keep making me tumble through the night

This is me, running away
lying to myself
trapped in my mind it's true, as you as we wait for the break

I could never change my desires suppressing and still straying under city's lights
I could never try, and to explain every little voice that goes on in my head

This is me, running away
lying to myself
trapped in my mind it's true, as you Chasing the "whole through I am"

and being failed
as time goes away I'll try off to keep and I will try to see a higher path while sinking away
wearing myself with distress

